19:20:14 From Dixie to Everyone:

For any Kiwis here or if you want to share this - on Telegram or FB @theGreatKiwiPicnic is growing fast, and the objective of getting the online conversations offline too - 30 venues around NZ

(and this could be easily done in Aus too) where people get together to break bread together and discuss the many issues of freedom, VPs and Mandates.

19:20:41 From Julie Parker to Everyone:

That is tremendous, Dixie...thanks for sharing

19:33:07 From Dixie to Everyone:

Medical Misadventure in NZ crept up to 7943 events in 1997 and then they stopped (for however long) logging the cases here - my Husband was one of the victims of that stupidity - so I did a bit of research way back in the day about the levels of MM and how messed up the reporting used to be. Nothing has changed - the non-reporting of stuff in the medical field when it doesn't suit is likely still the same. I learned just how far the medical profession will go to support each other then.

19:33:20 From Julie to Everyone:

Good news story here (although BBC don't think so): Kids are refusing to wear masks and take lateral flow tests in huge numbers in schools in NW England.

19:56:33 From Julie to Everyone:

From Oracle Films on Telegram: We were recently approached by the folks at Brand New Tube to produce a short film, using existing material, about Tony Stowell's long-standing campaign for Antonia's Law.

Stowell's mother suffered mistreatment during her final years as a resident in a UK care home, and ultimately passed away after being placed on an end-of-life pathway during the UK lockdown in May 2020.

Before and since his mother's passing, Tony has been a man on a mission to raise awareness of the many residents in care that suffer misconduct and malpractice from staff members. And the growing need to safeguard our elderly and vulnerable with CCTV in care homes, should they so wish.
