Hi all, here is the latest re my research on overseas flights ex-Sydney ...

We are Australian Citizens. I am unvaxxed. My wife booked a flight with Emirates last week for the family departing Sydney via Dubai to Dublin, Ireland. The Emirates rep said that there were no restrictions for unvaxxed travellers.

(Qantas and some other airlines have restrictions).

If you go to the clinical trials website- there is a lot of 'questionnaire' based trials' recruiting and not yet recruiting... or if you simply look up 'pandemic'. there is a lot of trials related to anxiety/ mental disorders/ behavioural, alcohol, how it has affected people on the spectrum, and other affects from the pandemic. It will be interesting to see what the outcome of these trials will be, and how many actually get recruited.
