I recently went to a Naturopath who asked me to get a broad range of blood tests. My doctor was dismissive about my going to the naturopath and refused to give me the whole list of blood tests. Now I have been diagnosed with a hormone issue, which she wanted to check that particular area, which he didn't actually test for which would be the most important. The Naturopath mentioned that the "doctors' standard of hormone levels etc are different from the Naturopaths. Also I went to my endocrinologist a couple years ago and wanted them to tell me how my body reacts to compensate for the lack of a certain hormone, and he said to me that he didn't know. So endocrinologists are not experts on hormones either.

Has everyone heard of the big train accident in East Palestine in America recently? They blew up the chemicals (which was used in WW2 for killing people) in the train. They have told people that they can return to their homes but there is massive amount of animals and medical issues from the people nearby. The Environmental Protection Agency has said that people can go back to their home. Also a nearby river provides 10% of the water to America.
