Vaccination is the mainstay for prevention of vaccine-preventable diseases such as COVID-19. In

Australia, consumers are fortunate to have free access to COVID-19 vaccines through the National

COVID-19 vaccination rollout. COVID-19 vaccination protects against severe illness and death from

COVID-19; helps prevent complications such as long COVID; and reduces the burden on the health system by preventing hospitalisations.<sup>5</sup> Vaccination is not 100% effective at preventing infection and means access to treatments for COVID-19 is also required.

For a thorough, detailed and accurate autopsy and that the death certificate is not vague or ambiguous but truthful and correct, the following specific instructions should be sent in writing to the state/ territory Coroner:

Histopathology specimens need to be stains for spike protein plus the Viral Nucleocapsid (both need to be checked) on following 21 named specified organs, tissues, vessels etc.

1. Adrenal glands
2. Aorta
3. Blood vessels
4. Bone marrow (femur)
5. Bowels
6. Brain
7. Endothelium (thin layer of flat epithelial cells that lines serous cavities, lymph vessels and blood vessels)
8. Heart
9. Intestines (large and small)

10. Kidneys

11. Liver

12. Lungs

13. Lymph nodes (mesenteric) vessels (Lymphocytes inflammatory cells)

14. Lymphocytic infiltration

15. Ovaries/ Testes

16. Plasma

Vaccination is the mainstay for prevention of vaccine-preventable diseases such as COVID-19. In

Australia, consumers are fortunate to have free access to COVID-19 vaccines through the National

COVID-19 vaccination rollout. COVID-19 vaccination protects against severe illness and death from

COVID-19; helps prevent complications such as long COVID; and reduces the burden on the health system by preventing hospitalisations.<sup>5</sup> Vaccination is not 100% effective at preventing infection and means access to treatments for COVID-19 is also required.
