2026-04-24 19:12:54 From Gerry to Everyone:

Anzac Day is greatly important. My father, Calvert Croxson Clarke was Supply Staff sergeant in General Blamey's office in Cairo. My mother, Nancy Catherine Clarke (nee Hardy) worked in the Naval office in Melbourne in 1940 and 1941 and on. And her brothers were Surgeon Commander Lowen, Squadron Leader Clem and Lieutenant (R.A.N.) Ward. While these survived the war, their friends like Damien Paper, the photographer, inspired them to have large families. Lowen was Dr to the Footscray Football Club, and had 6 children before he died in 1952. Ward was an architect and designed many of the airfields on the Pacific Islands in WW2, and partly designed Tullamarine Airport and had two children, before he also died early. And Calvert and Nancy, of course as mentioned before, had 10 boys. Also in 1959 our grade three primary school at Burke Hall, Xavier College teacher, Pop Irish, was on a first boat going to Gallipoli on 25. April 1915, with his brother shot dead next to him. Gerry.

In this morning's Trumpet message from a church in USA: From the desk of Richard Palmer:

Many of Britain's most decorated heroes are under attack—from their own government. Brian Wood, for example, was decorated for bravery by the Queen, then dragged through the courts.

The man responsible for the attack is now perhaps the most powerful man in the country.

Richard Hermer was a human rights lawyer and a close ally of Keir Starmer. When Starmer was elected prime minister, he ennobled his friend to become Lord Hermer and appointed him attorney general. Since then, the nation has been held captive by Lord Hermer's fussy, often self-destructive interpretation of human rights law.

Special Air Service soldiers are resigning en masse, the Telegraph reported, due to the "witch hunt" from human rights lawyers.

2026-04-24 19:59:27 From anthony to Everyone:

"If a soldier discharges their weapon, they are almost certainly going to get a knock at their door one day," a former Special Air Service (SAS) sergeant major told the Telegraph. "It feels like a betrayal and a break in the trust."

"Today every British soldier deployed must consider not only the enemy in front of them but the lawyer behind them," warned an open letter from veterans.

Lt. Col. Richard Williams, a former commanding officer for 22 SAS, said the resignation of troops has become a "national security risk" and jeopardizes Britain's alliance with the U.S.

One member of the SAS has spent the last four years being dragged through court for his actions in the fight against Irish Republican Army terrorists in 1991.

When it finally came before the Belfast Court of Appeal last month, the judges threw out the "ludicrous" case, saying it was "utterly divorced from reality." In October last year, a different judge expressed his surprise that the government was funding the prosecution of the case.

2026-04-24 20:00:21 From anthony to Everyone:

Today the Telegraph revealed how involved Lord Hermer had been in the prosecution of Iraq War veterans.

One human rights lawyer, Phil Shiner, was convicted of fraud for helping terrorists lie in their judicial persecution of veterans. Hermer and other lawyers helped them claim millions of pounds from the British government to fund their case against British veterans.

The accusers claimed the Iraqis were simple farmers, tortured and massacred by British soldiers. Their stories were laughably thin. One man who was caught up in a battle in a remote location claimed he was only out shopping for yogurt. It took years for the courts to conclude that these "farmers" were in fact members of the Iran-backed Mahdi Army and that the allegations were "deliberate lies." Yet Hermer said it made no difference if his clients were "a saint or a member of al-Qaeda."

2026-04-24 20:00:38 From Guy@StreakyBayFarAwayInTime to Everyone:

Replying to "In this morning's Trumpet message from a church in...":

There was a video this morning on YouTube by the Black Belt Barrister about Lord Hermer. An eye opener

2026-04-24 20:01:10 From anthony to Everyone:

The suspicion is that many of these lawyers knew the accusations were lies from the start, yet they continued the cases because they earned large legal fees funded by taxpayers.

"The orchestrated claims against British troops involved in the Battle of Danny Boy were tantamount to treason," said Gen. Sir Peter Wall, former head of the British Army.

It's not just Britain. Australia's most decorated living soldier, Ben Roberts-Smith, received the Victoria Cross for his "most conspicuous gallantry in action in circumstances of extreme peril." He is now being put on trial.

In Isaiah 3, God warns that as a curse to a disobedient nation, He would take away "the mighty man, and the man of war." Now the very governments they serve are taking them away.

Hosea 5:11 describes modern Britain behaving like a "silly dove," destroying itself with insane decisions.

2026-04-24 20:01:38 From anthony to Everyone:

Starmer seems to be on the edge of falling from power, and Hermer would likely go with him. But the damage Britain has inflicted on itself is not easily reversed. It will take a miracle to fix Britain. Thankfully one is coming, as Herbert W. Armstrong showed in his free book The United States and Britain in Prophecy.
